1. BACKGROUND

The United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names (UNGEGN) was established in pursuance of Economic and Social Council Resolutions 715 A (XXVII) of 23 April 1959 and 1314 (LXIV) of 31 May 1968 to further the standardisation of geographical names at both the national and international level.

In order to continuously coordinate the achievement of the required results across the world, the UNGEGN performs its work by means of divisions based on geographical proximity and the linguistic systems in use in the world. The Africa South Division, consisting of Botswana, Lesotho, Malawi, Namibia, South Africa, Swaziland and Zimbabwe, is one of four African divisions.

Recognising that national standardisation is a basic requisite for international standardisation and that each country has the sovereign right to decide on the names and written forms for its features, the United Nations recommended that each country should have a national geographical names authority to standardise its names.

The South African Geographical Names Council (SAGNC) is an advisory body appointed by the Minister of Arts and Culture in terms of the South African Geographical Names Act, 1998 (Act 118 of 1998). It is the supreme authority on geographical names in South Africa and has jurisdiction over all names of geographical features and entities in the territories over which the South African government has sovereignty or jurisdiction acquired by treaty. The SAGNC replaced the National Place Names Committee (NPNC), which was appointed in 1940 by the then Minister of Education, Arts and Science.

Not only is the SAGNC the highest advisory body to the Minister on official place names in South Africa, but it also advises the Minister on the transformation and standardisation of official geographical names.

It is also responsible for facilitating the establishment of provincial geographical names committees. A provincial geographical names committee advises local authorities and works with them to ensure they apply the principles of the SAGNC. The provincial geographic names committee makes recommendations to the SAGNC on geographical features within the provincial boundaries and liaises between communities and/or municipalities and the SAGNC. A priority of the SAGNC is to ensure that the general public of the country is involved in the naming process.

In order to advise the Ngqushwa Local Municipality on the naming of public places and streets, the Municipality's Council has to establish the Public

Place and Street Names Committee (PPSNC) in terms of section 80 of the Local Government: Municipal Structures Act, 1998 (Act 117 of 1998).

2. INTRODUCTION

Geographical names fill a double role: a cultural role in terms of the messages they convey – messages that express the soul of the country, often in an exuberant and spontaneous manner – and a technical role in terms of their locational function.

Geographical names include the names of natural (topographical) features and names of features created or adapted by humans, and are used to refer to populated as well as unpopulated places.

Geographical names can be used to reaffirm traditional culture and national identity and are important for reference purposes in conservation, education and training, tourism, trade and commerce, transportation, regional and environmental planning, science and technology, search-and-rescue operations, and in people's ordinary orientation and communication.

According to the South African Geographical Names Council Regulation 3(1) the criteria for deciding whether or not a geographical name is to be regarded as a local competence are as follows:

The area must be situated within the jurisdiction of the local authority and geographical names of local concern include streets, municipal buildings and squares, local parks and cemeteries and privately owned buildings.

Geographical names in Ngqushwa Municipality should reflect the rich and diverse cultural, natural resources, religious, ethnic and historical heritage of the area. The Municipality must therefore have a comprehensive policy with guidelines, rules and procedures for the naming and renaming of public places and streets, so that naming and renaming can be done in a constructive and transparent manner.

2.1 Vision of the Ngqushwa Local Municipality

Ngqushwa Local Municipality should have a well-managed settlement zones and environment, with access to infrastructure and socio-economic services, well developed transport routes, good governance and efficiency

2.2 Mission of the Street Naming Policy

To enhance the quality of life of people in Ngqushwa Local Municipality, through the provision of public place and street names.

2.3 Objectives of the policy

To standardise, transform and correct the naming of Public Places and street names in the area of jurisdiction of the Ngqushwa Local Municipality, in line with the national and provincial legislation.

2.4 Advancing the objectives of the Five-year Strategic Plan

One of the strategic objectives of the Five-year Strategic Plan is good governance. The key performance area coupled to this is sustainable management, with the development of proper revenue plans, the optimisation of the revenue base and the improvement of revenue collection being key initiatives. This calls for the provision of an address for every property, which in turn calls for the timely and effective allocation and recording of street names. Indeed, addresses are essential for:

- providing municipal services (ie engineering services);
- billing for rates and municipal services;
- completing the registration of ownership;
- ensuring the data integrity of the Municipality;
- contacting property owners for public participation processes; and - finding properties in response to emergency calls, etc.

The policy will enhance the strategic objective of good governance.

1. LEGISLATIVE CONTEXT

The policy is embedded in national and provincial legislation.

The following national legislation was taken into consideration in this policy:

- Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996
- South African Geographical Names Council Act, 1998 (Act 118 of 1998)
- Regulations on the standardisation of geographical names published in Government Gazette 24999 of 7 March 2003 by Notice R339
- Land Survey Act, 1997 (Act 8 of 1997)
- Land Use Planning Ordinance 15 of 1985 (Ordinance 15 of 1985)
- Local Government: Municipal Structures Act, 1998 (Act 117 of 1998)
- Local Government: Municipal Systems Act, 2000 (Act 36 of 2000)
- Development Facilitation Act, 1995 (Act 67 of 1995)

4. DEFINITIONS

For the purpose of the policy the following definitions apply:

Cul-de-sac means a street with a single entry, which is also the exit, into the street.

Duplication of street names means the repetition or near repetition (identical or similar in spelling or pronunciation) of already approved street names within the jurisdictional area of the Ngqushwa Local Municipality, within a radius of 20 km and/or within the same postal code.

Geographical name means the name of any terrestrial feature within the borders of the Republic of South Africa, together with the area of jurisdiction of the Republic acquired by treaty, whether –

- Natural or man-made or adapted by human agency; or
- Populated or unpopulated.

Geographical Names bank means a database consisting of approved geographical names within the area of jurisdiction of the Ngqushwa Local Municipality.

Local competence is taken to apply, in terms of section 3(1) of regulation 339 of 2003, on the standardisation of geographical names when –

- The area is situated within the jurisdiction of the local authority; and
- Streets, municipal buildings and squares, local parks and cemeteries are to be named.

Municipality means the "Ngqushwa Local Municipality" established and instituted in terms of Notice 6770 of 2000, promulgated in terms of section 12(1) of the Local Government Structures Act, 1998 (Act 117 of 1998), as amended.

Municipal property means an asset that is owned by the Municipality. This will include buildings, parks, libraries, museums, clinics, stadiums etc.

Panel of external advisers means people who are nominated and appointed by the Council and who are experts on history, culture, linguistics, town planning, toponymy, reconciliation and religion.

Policy means a set of guidelines that assists a public authority, such as a municipality, to make decisions in terms of its legislative authority and is therefore part of its constitutional and legislative framework.

(What is imperative, though, is the principle that the decision-making authority must in all instances and in all matters before it, still consider every individual matter on merit, and that no policy of the Municipality is supposed to be a rigid and inflexible set of rules.)

Public Open Place means land which falls under, or is intended to come under the ownership of the local authority, which is not leased or intended to be leased on a long term basis and which is utilised or will be utilised as an open space, park, garden, playground or square and include a public place (Section 8 of the Land use Planning Ordinance 15 of 1985)

Public Place means any land in respect of which the ownership as such vests in a local authority in terms of section 28 Land Use Planning Ordinance (15 of 1985).

Private Street means a street that is not a public street that is inside a sectional title complex or a Section 21 homeowner's association complex. A body corporate/home owners association will thus be the owner of the street. Private streets also include rights of way registered in favour of private users.

Public street means any street, road or thoroughfare shown on the general plan of a township, agricultural holding or other division of land or in respect of which the public has acquired a prescriptive or other right of way registered and/or zoned as a street in favour of the public.

Toponymy means the science or discipline with the study of place names, which is apparent from the word itself, which is derived from the Greek "topos" meaning 'place' and "onama" meaning 'name'. The object of Toponymy is anything that can pass as a geographical name, i.e. names of cities, towns, provinces, regions, districts, mountains, rivers, farms, roads, buildings etc.

Township zone name means a distinct name reserved for a broader area in which township development can take place. (All new township establishments will then bear the same distinct zone name as well as a unique extension number. If a township zone does not have an approved name, a township zone name needs to be approved before new townships can be reserved.)

Township name means the name allocated to a new township establishment. (This name is made up of the name of the township zone name and the next available extension number. Names of new township developments have to be allocated by issuing a reservation letter.)

5. GENERIC TERMINOLOGY AND CLASSIFICATION OF ROADS

5.1 Generic terminology

All street names must contain one of the following generic terms or suffixes:

- Avenue is a wide and attractive city street, a tree lined road, a road lined with trees, smaller than a boulevard
- Boulevard is a wide, prestigious street – usually a traffic artery or primary road.
- By-pass is a wide road which runs around a densely populated suburban area to allow traffic to flow past.
- Close, Place is a blind alley or cul-de-sac.
- Crescent is a ring road or street with an arch which subtends an angle of less than 180°.
- Circle is a ring road starting and ending at the same point.
- Drive is a picturesque route, or a private carriageway to a dwelling.
- Freeway is a dual carriageway with grade-separated intersections and interchanges at 5 km intervals.
- Highway is a dual carriageway with controlled grade-separated intersections at about 500 m intervals.
- Lane is a narrow road or trail (alley), often for service vehicles only.
- Nature trail is a footpath for hikers and/or people to enjoy the scenery, and natural environment.
- Road is a public communication road (generally used to describe thoroughfares outside built-up areas).
- Street is a road in a city or town that serves houses, businesses, shops, etc.

5.2 Classification of streets

Freeway, the main function is to provide provincial- and regional mobility. Usually located in a wide reserve. The adjacent developments are usually built with their backs toward the road. No direct access to stands. The design and standard of the road and the management of adjacent land uses must enable traffic to maintain speeds as allowed within the speed limit. Obstruction, delay or stops should only occur when there is an accident or emergency. Access to the adjacent land and other roads are provided via proper intersections with level separation. These roads usually have no traffic signals or stop streets.

Activity Spine in the Activity Spine classification, two classes can be distinguished. (Class 1 and Class 2). Both are classified as Activity Spines since both give direct access in some way to non-residential uses. A more business-like character is experienced in the node- areas when travelling along these roads. These roads carry large volumes of traffic. The level of mobility varies depending on the intensity of developments along the roads and delays can occur because of direct accesses from these roads. The roads could be signaled or regulated by traffic control measures like traffic signals or 4-way stops where other roads intersect. The differences between the two classes are as follows:

Activity Street, means a service road for concentrations of activities and developments. The priority is no longer to supply good mobility or link nodes or activity areas, but to provide direct access, on-street parking- and loading facilities. It can play a major role in supporting the abovementioned roads and should be encouraged to flank and complement corridors, mobility spines and activity spines to ensure their stable mobility function. Mixed land uses are encouraged along activity streets.

Residential Collector, in all residential areas, there is a road, (sometimes more than one), that serves as a collector of local traffic and provides linkage with the major roads discussed above. Because residential sites next to these roads have good exposure and can be purchased economically (as a house), businesses tend to locate there and then convert the building to serve their purpose.

Residential Street, means a street that serves and gives access to adjacent Erven which does not require specific action other than to maintain it in its present form.

Main Arterial Route, means a combined term for a road, section of a road or an intersection to such road, referred to as a Mobility Spine.

8. STREET NAMES

8.1 General guidelines for the naming of streets

8.1.1 Mandatory guidelines

The length of street names should always be taken into consideration in terms of the cartographic layout of maps, that is, shorter names for shorter streets, longer names for longer streets, etc. Shorter streets giving access to fewer than six stands should retain the same name as the street cutting across. Cul-de-Sac's/Places with a street length of more than 50 meters should be allocated a street name.

When the name of a person is used, the prominence of the street should be in proportion to the stature of the person. Consent from the person (if he/she is still alive) or the family (if deceased) should be included in the motivating memorandum.

When a street is intersected by a natural or man-made barrier, the affected street may be renamed by using the existing name in addition to a direction route marker, e.g., Church Street North and Church Street South.

If the natural or man-made barrier is removed so that two or more streets are joined, the affected streets should be given the same name to prevent one street from having two or more names, leading to confusion.

All named streets must have a definite starting point and end. These can be a T-junction, cul-de-sac, Y-junction or river.

Changes in direction or bends in a street are not regarded as starting points or ends of streets.

Proposed names should meet one of the following criteria:

Honour or commemorate noteworthy people associated with the city, provincial and National

Commemorate local, provincial and National natural or international historical places or events and memories of cultural significance to the people of Ngqushwa Municipality.

Strengthen the community's heritage and promote the character of the area.

- Names that are offensive, vulgar, blasphemous, indecent or derogatory with regard to race, colour, creed or gender
- Names of which the spelling or pronunciation is so close to existing names that they may cause confusion
- Names that are too long or clumsy, especially where the streets to be named are short or the places to be named are small, as this could cause cartographic problems
- Names that may be regarded as an advertisement for a particular product, service or firm
- The names of existing townships or geographical features used as street names

8.1.4 Naming without Council approval

Where existing streets are extended (continued) and the street names have been approved, the existing names must be given to the extension.

When a new township is established within an approved zone name, only a new extension number need be added to the existing name, and no approval is required for this.

Street names for private roads in a Section 21 company township or subdivision, privately owned rights of way will be checked for duplications and be measured whether it corresponds with the guidelines of the policy. Toponymy approval will be granted by Council to the private street names if the criteria have been met.

Administrative errors and/or incorrect spelling of names may be rectified without going through the process described in this policy and without formal approval by the Council.

The importance of street addresses cannot be underestimated, as they ensure proper service delivery of all kinds. The allocated address (with street code) will reflect on all council systems.
